de L'Inconnue:

As urban overtakes rural areas, there is a loss of sense of self and social awareness.

-RJ Haas

This show consists of adventurous social commentary on the tidal wave of urban development flooding into the farmlands of South Jersey. RJ Haas is a rural person but, as an Artist he needs and wants city life to promote his art, as a result there arise hidden personal conflicts in this body of work. These works are not surreal in nature, rather they are separate realities, formulated to show and illustrate his opinions, thoughts, and questions on the impact of this tidal wave and the gridlock that is to follow.
